PROBLEM CHILD & THE END OF CIVILIZATION  By George F. Walker, Director Chris Robson

February 9 - 18, 2012
TELUS Studio Theatre - Chan Centre for the Performing Arts,

Two blistering one-act plays from George F. Walker’s sextet of plays, the smash hit “Suburban Motel.” One seedy motel room houses the deliciously dark and comic world of English Canada’s most accomplished playwright. Both are terrific tales of tenderness from the gritty side of life.

Fiercely funny and equally heartbreaking, Problem Child asks the question “how far would you go to get your baby back?” Holed up in a cheap motel, two young parents impatiently await a social worker’s verdict while enlisting the help of a drunken innkeeper. Problem Child is a recipient of the Chalmers Award for “Best New Play.”

“Five Stars... (Problem Child is) extraordinarily funny... Walker at his best.” - The Toronto Sun

The End of Civilization is a gripping stage-noir thriller about an average couple who are driven to cross legal and moral boundaries in order to avoid financial ruin. A bizarre love triangle develops between the man, his wife and a policeman who is investigating the man for a particularly heinous crime.

"No other living playwright pushes the boundaries of comedy as far..." - Chicago Sun-Times

George F. Walker is one of Canada’s most prolific and widely produced playwrights. His work has been honoured with two Governor General’s Awards, eight Chalmers Awards and five Dora Awards.
